Move in Every N.C. State freshman is required to live on campus in his or her first year, so needless to say we all remember the hell of move-in.

For the veterans, it's a pain, not much more, not anything less. Parents, friends, family, or whoever has been railroaded into hauling all their stuff to Raleigh arrive, depart, and drop off everything with the precision of a surgical strike. First things first, the fridge is plugged in, and the clothes put away, and then all the books, CDs, posters and paraphernalia go in their place.

For freshmen, it's a bit different. They hand-truck in everything, then Mom and Dad bid a quick goodbye, and then they find themselves standing in a claustrophobic catastrophe of boxes, crates and luggage, roasting under a dull overhead light and wondering if it will always be this hot in the dorms.

CENTENNIAL CAMPUS

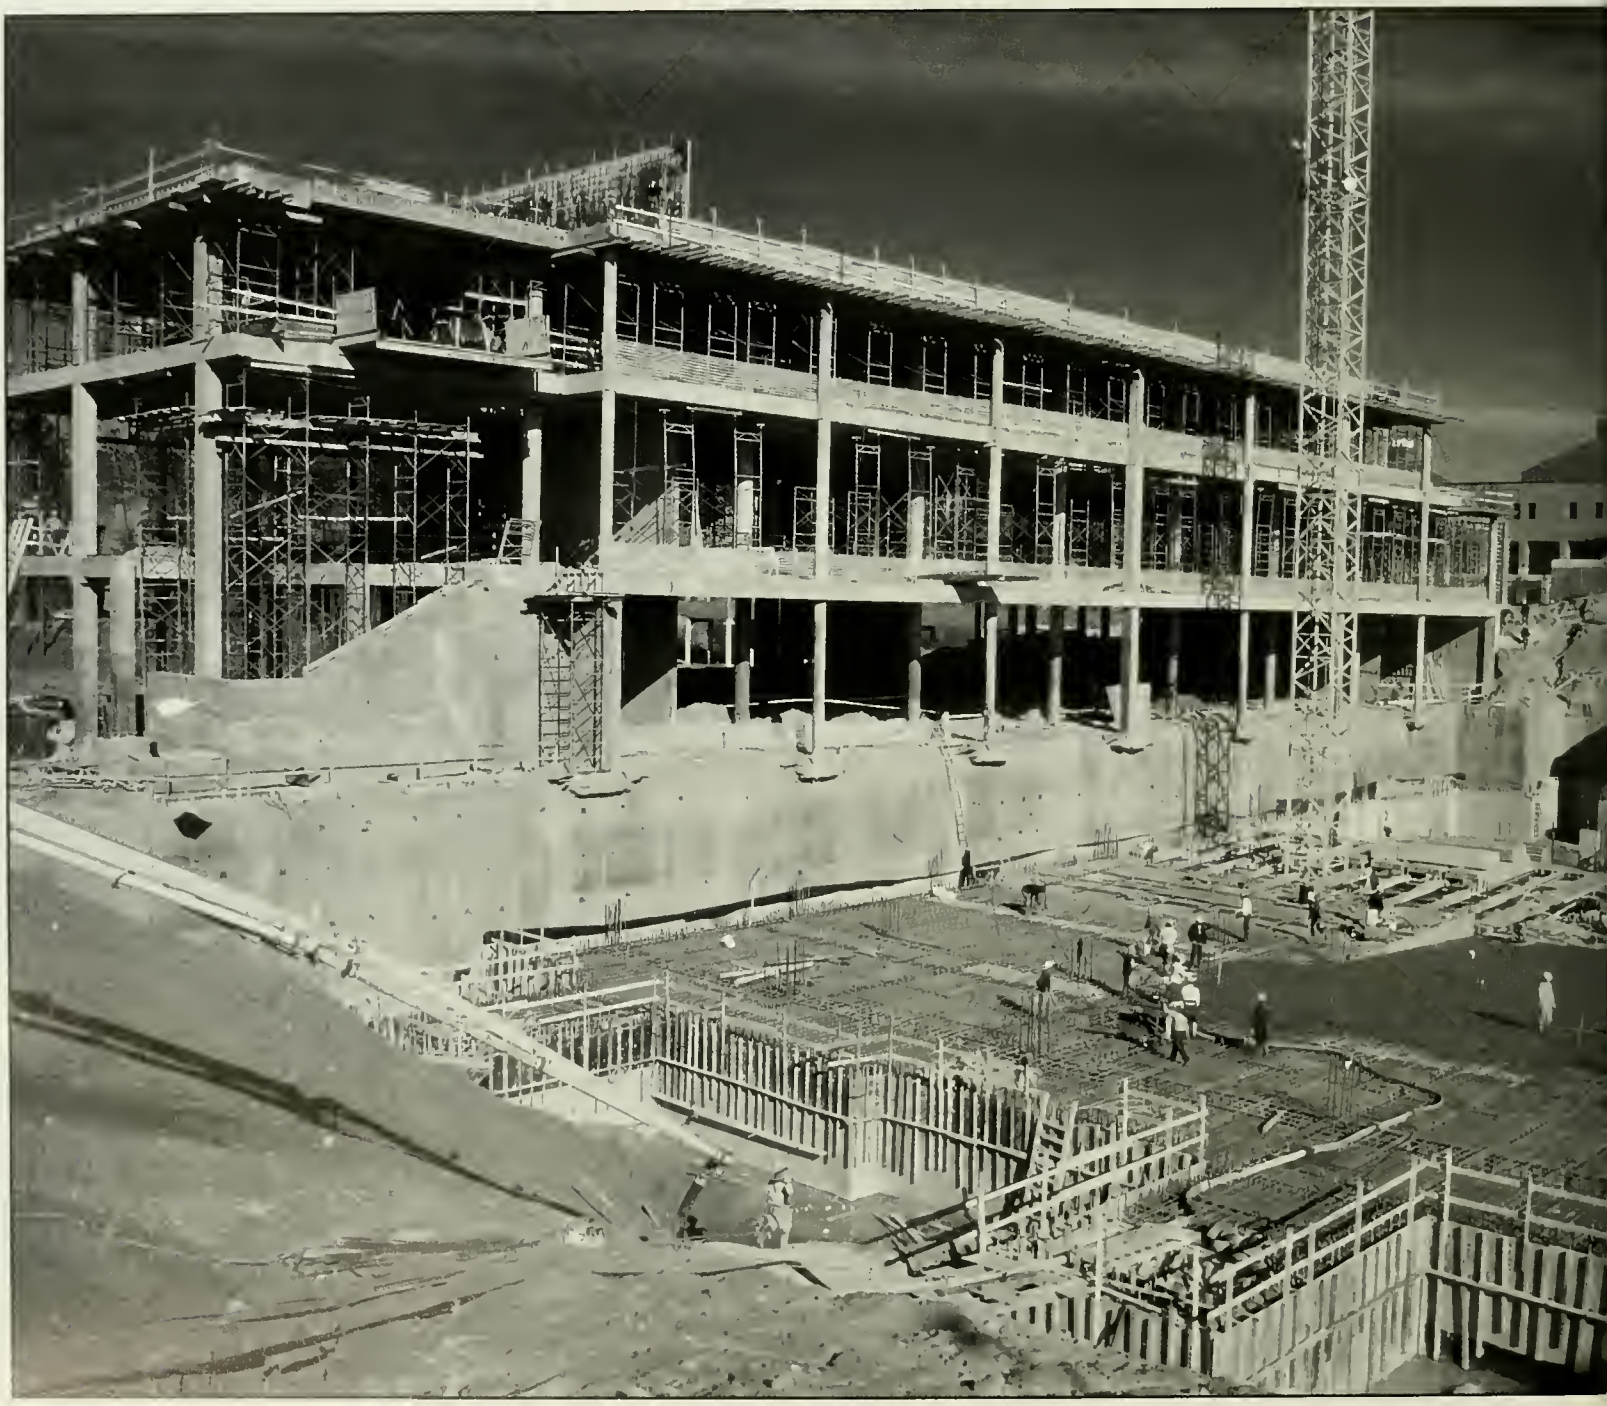

Celebrating 10 Years of Excellence

It was in December of 1984 that Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. , in the closing days of his second term, gave North Carolina State University its second land grant. Governor Hunt's only charge was that the University utilize the 355 acres of land to provide expanded opportunities for collaboration with industry and government and to extend the University's research teaching and extension activities toward economic development.

In February of the following year, Governor Jim Martin allotted the University an additional 450 acres. These comprise Governor Hunt's vision North Carolina State University's Centennial Campus.

Responding to Governor Hunt's charge, the Board of Trustees and the University Administration embarked upon a year-long process of master planning to determine how the University would use the land to serve

Smith

McKinney / Special to Agromeck

The Master Plan

McKinney / Special to Agromeck

the people of North Carolina in the 21st century. This growth in quantity and quality challenged the University to pause and develop a vision for the next century. The physical Master Plan for Centennial Campus manifests that vision.

The authors of the Centennial Campus's Master Plan envisioned a mixed-use campus of quality in design and construction. They dreamt that its facilities would be designed to meet the University's long-term needs and to accommodate changing technologies and research. Corporate and government tenants would be selected because of their interest in research programs in our colleges.

In departing from the traditional quad oriented campus plan, the Master Plan for Centennial Campus focuses around the natural features of the terrain. Great care has been taken to preserve and complement the natural contours and features of the land, especially of Lake Raleigh, a breeding ground for much local wildlife and many migratory birds.

A Collision of Worlds

In its first hundred years, North Carolina State University has evolved from a small agricultural and technical college into the state's leading technological university and one of the nation's top 40 research institutions. As the University begins its second century, NCSU is poised to become one of the world's preeminent scientific and technological universities forging innovative relationships between industry, government, and education.

The University's vision for Centennial Campus is indeed a unique one. It is possible to embark on a project of such scope as Centennial Campus only because of the strength of the University's faculty and their ability to attract top quality students, both graduate and undergraduate. If it were not for such a recognized research faculty with demonstrated achievements in teaching and extension, the University could not have undertaken this venture.

Centennial Campus' many partners, tenants, and students are enjoying the benefits of proximity in an environment which places them in contact with individuals whom they've traditionally not seen on a daily basis. The concept of a mixed-campus that the University is building provides that contact so that technology can be developed and transferred from people to people.

ABB Transmission Technology Institute was the first corporate partner in their own building. The College of Textiles Complex was started in 1988. In the years since then, the college's enrollment has increased, its research programs have more than tripled, and its promise for the future is bright.

Since 1988 when the University opened its first laboratory on Centennial Campus, the new campus has accumulated an inventory of $57.4 million in bricks and mortar in four buildings: Research I, Research II, the College of Textiles Complex, and Corporate Research Center I. Construction of four more buildings, the

Smith

McKinney / Special to Agomeck

Engineering Graduate Research Center, Research III, Research IV, and the Partners Building began recently. In addition to the buildings, research projects have produced an additional $19.9 million in equipment which has been installed in three of the buildings. The University's research budget allocated to these facilities for the last four years has been over $60 million.

Currently 1,700 people work, study and teach on Centennial Campus which is located just southwest of downtown Raleigh. An additional 800 people more will locate there when the latest projects are completed.

October 19, 1994 marked the 10 year anniversary the inception of Centennial Campus. Over 1,000 students faculty and visitors attended a ceremony on the campus. At the event, North Carolina Governor James B. Hunt outlined the dreams that have come true on Centennial Campus and envisioned what is yet to come. Former Chancellor Bruce Poulton and UNC System President C. D. Spangler were also in attendance at the ceremonies.

For North Carolina State University and our community, the tenth anniversary of Centennial Campus was something of which to be proud. Perhaps C. D. Spangler said it best: "Just imagine what we will be celebrating on the 20th anniversary."

Aimed at the Future

The plans for Centennial Campus are just as impressive as what has already been accomplished. When completed Centennial Campus will consist of several research clusters made up of university, corporate, and government laboratories, an Executive classroom (hotel/conference center), retail stores, and housing. Planned Amenities include a fixed guideway transportation system linked to the main campus, athletic clubs and fields, a model middle school, an eighteen hole golf course, and park areas and pedestrian pathways to amenities, service, and neighborhoods. During 1995, 750,000 square feet of space will be completed or in construction, representing a $120 million investment in facilities and infrastructure. Just after the turn of the century it will have a daytime population of 20,000-30,000 and will meet the housing needs of 10,000. With three buildings currently in operation and four under construction, plans call for 60 additional buildings by the year 2020. When construction is completed, Centennial Campus will more than double the size of the university.

Centennial Campus will provide a new dimension of excellence for the next century in the performance of North Carolina State University's historical mission of teaching, research, and service to the people of North Carolina.

Hillsborough St.

For many students, and non-students, Hillsborough St. is the place to relax. Hillsborough St. is essentially the northern border for the main campus and the primary focus of social activity. From major basketball victories to a drink with friends or just a haircut, the businesses of Hillsborough St. serve many purposes for the university community.

Hillsborough St. also seems more dynamic than most of campus, with several businesses opening and going out of business every semester. As such, here is offered a snap shot of the currently visited stretch. As of May 18, 1995 the roster of businesses starting across from the chancellor's residence and running down to westernmost portion of main campus (Gorman St.) is listed along with photographs taken on that same day.

A Tale of Two seasons....

By Owen S. Good

The tale of two seasons — wrapped into one.

From the beginning of the season until Jan. 4, things looked like they might turn around for the 1994-95 N.C. State men's basketball season after the three worst seasons in the program's history. Technically, it was a complete success for the first nine of 10, non-conference games. The Wolfpack only lost to No. 4 Kansas at home 96-91 (which earned a standing ovation) and to eventual national champion UCLA 88-80 in Los Angeles. The remainder of the opponents were destroyed by an average of 34 points. Then State beat its most-hated rival, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, ranked No. 1 in the nation, 80-70.

Then the wheels fell off.

In retrospect, things didn't start to look really bad until the 84-67 loss to Maryland on Jan. 22. That's because the Wolfpack beat Duke in Cameron Indoor Stadium four days earlier, ending a conference road losing streak that had reached 19.

Big deal.

Duke was on its way to its worst season ever (2-14 in the conference) and was clearly inferior to every team in the league. For those that had followed the season, beating Duke was no more of a turnaround for the season than beating Carolina was for the program. After stumbling through an 80-64 drubbing of William & Mary earlier on Jan. 11, senior guard Lakista McCuller said the team hadn't learned anything about playing to win. The same held true after the Duke victory, for the Pack went on to lose six straight.

Where once there was talk of the NIT, maybe even the NCAA tournament, suddenly there was talk of the ACC's play-in game. And while the Wolfpack did beat Duke and Florida State at home to staunch the losing streak, it gave a 72-68 victory to Georgia Tech. Then the Wolfpack lost 62-45 to Clemson, perhaps the most ignominious defeat of the year. State made only four field goals in the first half, the losing streak to the Tigers extended to a record six games and Les Robinson was thoroughly out-coached by Clemson rookie skipper Rick Barnes.

Coaching was again the hot topic. Two camps opened in the fan population; there were those that said Robinson's program had been victimized by poor luck in recruiting, through no fault of his own, and he should be given another year. The other camp was outraged that the losing had continued into a fifth season, and wanted him gone.

On the eve of the ACC's play-in game (which State would be playing in for the third straight year), Technician ran an editorial calling for Robinson's resignation. Opponents of the editorial were angered at the timing, saying it would only serve to harm the team's confidence.

But as had been the case ever since the seniors were freshmen, it doesn't take much to sap the team's confidence — especially since it never appeared Robinson could inspire some in the first place. Why the Wolfpack didn't think it could beat Duke a third time is unknown to all; maybe it's because the team never knew how to win.

It was a tale of two seasons, but told three times before.

Character and Unity

By Kevin Brewer

At a roast honoring N.C. State coach Kay Yow on Feb. 4, her players watched highlights of Yow's 20 years with the program, including her four ACC Tournament titles and more than 400 wins.

The next day, the 1994-95 Wolfpack looked like one of Yow's championship teams, sprinting to a 39-20 half-time lead on No. 14 Duke. It was the best half the Wolfpack had played all season.

State went on to beat the Blue Devils 71-55 in Reynolds Coliseum, its first win over a ranked team in almost two years.

"I think it really had an impact on them, hearing about all the pride and tradition of the program," Yow said after the game. "They have a lot to live up to, and they want to do it."

Yow was roasted and toasted by the school and more than 20 former Wolfpack players and coaches at the invitation-only dinner. Guests were given tours of State's refurbished athletics facilities, including the $300,000 women's basketball locker room. Yow was also presented with a golf cart from former assistant coach Que Tucker during a pre-game ceremony.

"With all the festivities this weekend, we did not want to lose this game," State floor leader Jennifer Howard said. "We don't want to lose any game, but losing this game was not an option."

Season

State had two primary goals at the beginning of the season:

1. Finish third in the ACC.
2. Make the NCAA Tournament.

The majority of sports reporters didn't think either goal was possible. They picked the Wolfpack to finish sixth in the conference.

The Duke win put State at 13-7 overall and 6-4 in the ACC, good enough for fourth place. In the eyes of the NCAA tournament selection committee, the Pack was a still on the bubble.

A few days later, State lost at first-place

Virginia. It was the Pack's last regular season loss.

State ripped through Florida State, Georgia Tech, Clemson and Wake Forest and out-lived North Carolina, winning its last five conference games by an average of 14 points and finishing in third place.

The Wolfpack played inspired defense, holding opponents to 64 points per game.

During the span, Howard played all but seven minutes, including all 50 in a double-overtime contest against Carolina. She became an on-court extension of Yow and one of the nation's best three-point shooters.

ACC Rookie of the Year Chasity Melvin was the team's inside presence that it missed during the previous season. The 6-foot-3 center averaged 16 points and nine rebounds during the streak.

Senior guard Tammy Gibson enjoyed the best two weeks of her career, averaging 25 points and three steals per game.

State was so dominant during the stretch run that only one of its games was closer than 13 points. That was an 88-86 double-overtime victory over No. 9 Carolina, the last home game for seniors Gibson and forward Kolleen Kreul.

Gibson totaled 32 points, 12 rebounds and six assists, while playing all 50 minutes. Forward Kolleen Kreul banked in a leaning three-pointer with 3.1 seconds left, sending the game into the first overtime. It was Kreul's second career three.

Two weeks later, State lost to the Tar Heels in the semifinals of the ACC Tournament.

Another week later, Howard was named a third-team Academic All-American. State received its first national ranking in two seasons. And the Wolfpack, which was featured on ESPN's NCAA selection show, watched the show at Amedeo's restaurant as it received its first tournament berth in four years.

"This is a special season. "They've accomplished above and beyond what people expected of them."

The Wolfpack's win 76-74 win over No. 7 Penn State in State College may be the best example of the team's character and unity. The Pack endured an intimidating Rec Hall crowd, advancing to the Sweet Sixteen while handing the Lions their first home loss in almost two years.

Kreul hit a three-pointer to tie the score at 72 with 1:18 left. A minute later, Howard ran down the shot clock, drove the lane and found Melvin underneath the basket for a layup. After Penn State answered with a basket, Tammy Gibson dribbled the length of the court for a game-winning three-footer.

But it was forward Umeki Webb who dominated the Nittany Lions in the second half, scoring 13 points — mostly on slashing moves through the lane. And when she fouled out with seven minutes left, reserve Nicole Mitchell scored six point in the game's final five minutes.

In the first half, back-up forward Muriel Davis scored in double figures along with Kreul.

A balanced team. That's exactly what impressed Georgia coach Andy Landers the most as he prepared to play the Pack in the third round of the tournament. But he found a way to eliminate State, 98-79.

At 21-10, the 24th ranked Wolfpack wasn't one of Yow's best teams. It wasn't even close. But it may have been one of her favorites.

"The worst thing about this, it's just a loss," Yow said after the Georgia loss. "But that's it. Our year is over. Last week, I was just happy to have another week with these players. Now, I wish I could have another week with them. ■

Kreul for "3" !!!

By Kevin Brewer

Raleigh, N.C. —

Any discussion of N.C. State's 88-86 double-overtime win over North Carolina begins and ends with Kolleen Kreul's shot.

Kreul gets the first word.

"It wasn't the best shot, but luckily it went in when we needed it," she said a week later. "I was halfway through the lane before I saw what happened."

Here's what happened:

Kreul was at the top of the key, her back to the basket. Ten seconds left. Carolina 72, State 69.

She looked for point guard Jennifer Howard, who was smothered by Marion Jones. Kreul had Charlotte Smith glued to her. With no other option, Kreul faked right and spun left, sneaking a glimpse at the basket. Smith dogged her every step of the way.

Then Kreul heaved an off-balance 20-footer ... that hung in the air ...

Overtime.

"We knew we had gotten a reprieve," Wolfpack coach Kay Yow said.

Yow had already given her team one reprieve after calling a timeout with 11:16 left.

State trailed 58-46, so Yow sent the Pack back to the court in a 2-3 zone. The Tar Heels committed seven turnovers in their next 11 possessions. State eventually took a 67-66 lead with 1:46 left.

Wolfpack senior guard Tammy Gibson had the game's best performance in her last home game. She scored 32 points, including nine in the overtimes, and pulled down 12 rebounds. Then she hugged Yow before leaving the court.

The game was characterized more by exhaustion than execution. Gibson and Howard played all 50 minutes.

And Smith, the Heels' all-American forward, spent most of the previous two days in bed with a nagging cold but still managed 21 points and 10 rebounds in 36 minutes.

Smith also held Kreul in check most of the day.

But Kreul — who had only nine points, including her game-saver — seemed to will the game State's way.

During the game's last 10:25, three of the Pack's inside players fouled out. When they did, they walked to bench and apologized.

"Why are you sorry?" Kreul asked them. "We're going to win the game."

Kreul gets the last word too.

Gibson's Sweet Emotion

By Kevin Brewer

State College, Pa. — N.C. State's resurgent season — complete with a Sweet Sixteen berth — almost didn't happen.

The Wolfpack, a No. 7 seed in the Midwest, had to get past second-seeded Penn State — on its home court.

Despite an 0-for-2 half from its most explosive scorer, Tammy Gibson, the Pack held a 38-28 halftime lead. But Coach Kay Yow knew this: Penn State would make a run in the second half. And she was right.

The Wolfpack led 61-47 with 10:30 left. Then the Nittany Lions scored 17 unanswered points, while the Pack committed 10 turnovers in three minutes. Penn State, 64-61, 7:08 left.

More than any one player, Rec Hall, the Lions' intimidating home floor, put them back in the game. The rickety gym was voted the second toughest arena for visiting teams by a panel of coaches and media. And the Nittany Lions hadn't lost there in almost two years.

"We became very rattled there for a period of time," Yow said. "And the crowd had a lot to do with that."

By the end of the run the arena — filled with a near-capacity 5,578 fans — was at its loudest.

"Just stay calm,"

Pack point guard Jennifer Howard yelled to her teammates. "We can do it."

During the next five-plus minutes, there were four lead changes and one tie. Then Penn State took a 72-69 lead with 1:18 left.

The rest was bedlam. Pack forward Kolleen Kreul finished off a 7-for-7, 18-point performance with a wide-open three-pointer. 72-all.

Kreul blocked a

Shelby Thayer three attempt on the next play. Pack center Chasity Melvin hit a layup from Howard for a two-point lead. Nittany Lion reserve Angie Pothoff answered with a layup, finishing with 18 second-half points. 74-all.

No timeout needed — 8.4 seconds left. Gibson took a quick inbounds pass from Kreul, dribbled the length of the court, cut once at mid-court and hit a three-foot bank shot, scoring her first points of the game. N.C. State, 76-74.

"I thought, I've just got to score somehow," Gibson said. "I just couldn't believe it. I was crying.

I struggled the whole game, but that was my best shot all year."

"For us too," Yow said.

Windhover, NCSU's literary and visual arts journal, provides the university community with the opportunity to showcase their creative works in a reputable publication.

Windhover annually publishes the literature and visual art of students, faculty, staff, and alumni of NCSU, and has received several awards for excellence from the collegiate publishing community. All literary and visual works are critiqued and selected by a staff consisting of students and faculty advisors.

Windhover not only serves the university by highlighting its best literature and visual art, but also provides an excellent opportunity for students to learn more about creative literature. The literary staff critically evaluates written entries, but also learns more about the poetic and literary craft.

The literary staff is open to students of all majors. Windhover is funded by student activity fees, and is therefore intended to benefit all university students. The more that students from diverse areas of the university are involved, the better Windhover is able to fulfill its mission.

...the House yesterday passed a bill that would reduce U.S. troops on peacekeeping missions abroad. The bill was approved 241 to 181, but only after it was amended to seek congressional approval for sending U.S. troops on some peacekeeping missions. They also all but gutted a "like defense" provision.

Spring Training Is a Quiet Strike

...work stoppage in professional sports history entered its seventh month, that sentiment seemed to be shared by baseball players, officials and fans from Orlando to Annapolis to Montreal. Approximately 260 striking players met in a hotel ballroom here today with union representatives. Philadelphia Phillies center fielder Lenny Dykstra, who questioned the union's approach to negotiations during a television interview a week ago, said during the meeting that he wouldn't serve as a strike-breaker. Last week's breaking-ranks comments by Dykstra had some owners apparently believing that they were winning the solidarity war, and that

House Cuts Payments to United Nations

...The House yesterday passed a bill that would reduce U.S. payments to the United Nations and make it more difficult for the president to send troops on peacekeeping missions abroad. The bill was approved 241 to 181, but only after it was amended to seek congressional approval for sending U.S. troops on some peacekeeping missions. They also all but gutted a "like defense" provision.

Justice Dept. Starts Probe Of Brown

Commerce Chief's Financial Dealings To Be Scrutinized
By Jerry Knight and Pierre Thomas
Washington Post Staff Writers
The Justice Department yesterday announced it has started a formal probe of Commerce Secretary Ronald H. Brown's personal finances that could lead to appointment of an independent counsel to further investigate the matter. Attorney General Janet Reno announced the decision in a statement. Her finding was based on a preliminary review that found there were "specific allegations of wrongdoing from a credible source"—the standard set by the independent counsel laws. This finding doesn't reflect any judgment by Justice about whether the allegations are true—only that they are from serious sources that can't be ignored. The Justice Department statement did not discuss the specific allegations that are being investigated. Congressional Republicans, who contended that Brown violated financial disclosure laws by filing false or misleading financial reports about his financial dealings with Washington business executive Noland Hill. AP

Above: Newt Gingrich wanted to be speaker of the House years before he managed to win a House seat, and he long ago laid plans for the Republican takeover of Capitol Hill which most of his colleagues considered an impossible dream.

Right: Despite the exhortations of President Clinton and the First Lady, the year ended without significant health insurance reform. Sentiment for change seemed to be limited to the minority of Americans who lacked health insurance or feared losing it. In the absence of public outcry, there was insufficient support in Congress for a bill which called for universal coverage. The president promised to veto anything less.

AP

National News

RM

Left: Hillary Rodham Clinton was the strongest supporter of the President's health care plan. The First Lady was a very politically active First Lady. She became the leading advocate for the President's health care plan and campaigned country-wide for its success in Congress. When it failed to become law, she vowed to take up the fight in 1995.

RM

Above: Supreme Court Justice Stephen G. Breyer became President Bill Clinton's second high court appointee. In replacing Justice Harry A. Blackmun, Breyer is expected to join the moderate justices.

AP

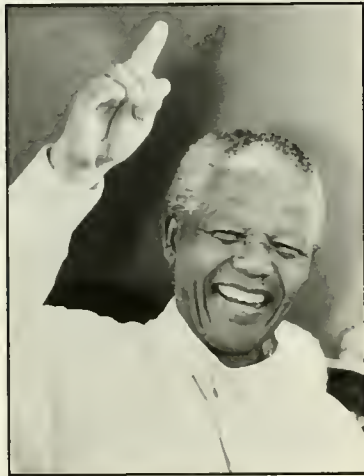

Left: Neither President Clinton nor his wife and daughter were home when Frank Corder breached restricted air space around the White House and smashed into a magnolia tree on the South Lawn. The single engine plane came to rest against the mansion wall and burst into flames.

International News

Right (above): More than two million Rwandan refugees were forced to flee to Zaire and other neighboring countries during the Rwandan Civil War. Disease killed thousands of refugees, but the U.N. says massacres left more than 500,000 dead.

Right (below): Nelson Mandela won South Africa's first all-race election that ended white minority rule and made Mandela the first black South African leader.

Right: Cuban refugees set sail for the United States on anything that would float to escape the dictatorial regime of Fidel Castro. President Clinton ordered U.S. ships to intercept those fleeing Cuba by boat and detain them at the U.S. naval base in Guantanamo Bay.

Above: With President Bill Clinton presiding at a White House Mideast Peace ceremony, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and King Hussein of Jordan shook hands and signed a declaration which all but ended the threat of another war between the Jewish state and its Arab neighbor.

Left: The U.S. sent three special envoys, lead by former President Jimmy Carter, to strike an agreement which returned Jean-Bertrand Aristide to power with the aid of 21,000 U.S. troops.

In the News

Right: A jet-propelled astronaut unhooked his lifelines to the Space Shuttle Discovery and flew free, 150 miles above Earth. It was the first untethered spacewalk in 10 years. The jet pack which astronauts Mark Lee and Carl Meade flew around in cost $7 million. Before Lee and Meade, only six astronauts had walked in space without a lifeline to the mother ship.

Above: Japan's nightmare of a disastrous urban earthquake came true on January 17, 1995 when a quake of magnitude 7.5 tore through several western cities, toppling hundreds of buildings, touching off raging fires and killing more than 5,000 people.

Right: Heather Whitestone, a deaf woman, became the first contestant with a disability to win the Miss America Pageant. The 21 year old native of Birmingham, Alabama, lost most of her hearing after a reaction to a diphtheria shot at the age of 18 months.

AP

RM

Below: O. J. Simpson always lived life on camera, first as a football star, then as a sportscaster, commercial pitchman and actor. But nothing could have prepared him, or his fans, for the role he would play in 1994. He was accused of brutally murdering his ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman.

Left: Tropical Storm Alberto hit the South, and the Georgia floods made history. The storm unloaded more than 20 inches of rain and caused flooding that killed 31 people. Forty-nine counties were declared federal disaster areas and about 46,000 people were driven from their homes.

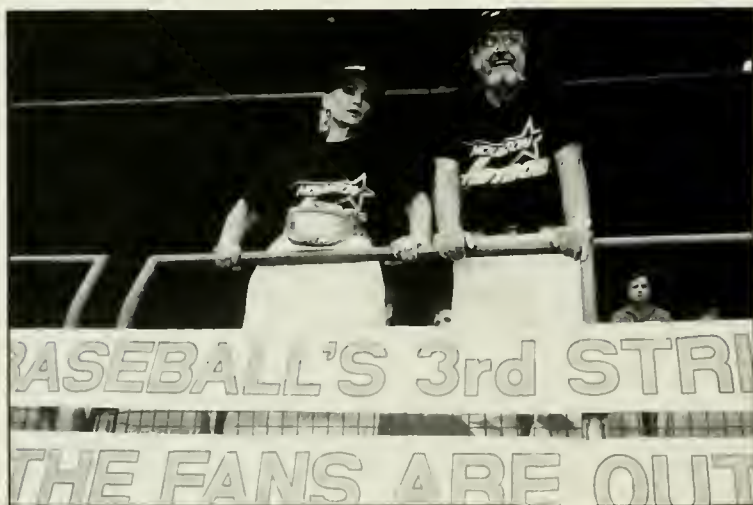

AP

Right: The 1994 World Cup, soccer's ultimate prize, was played in the United States. The U.S. team lost to Brazil in the second round. Brazil advanced to the finals where they won against Italy. An estimated 2 billion people worldwide watched the final game which was played in the Rose Bowl.

Above: The baseball season ended early in 1994. The players went on strike in August and a later the owners voted to cancel the remainder of the season, playoffs and World Series included. It was the first time since 1904 that the World Series was not played.

Right: Andre Agassi was the people's choice at the U.S. Open Tennis Championship in New York. The 24-year-old Agassi became the first unseeded player to win the crown since 1966. It was Agassi's first U.S. Open title.

AP

Sports and Music

AP

Left: It was a match made in tabloid heaven: The child of one of the two biggest stars in rock history married the other biggest star in rock history. Lisa Marie Presley, Elvis's only child, got hitched to the reclusive Michael Jackson.

RM

Left: The torch was passed in the summer of 1994. After hearing about the legendary rock festival from their parents for years, a new generation seized the opportunity to create their own Woodstock. Several hundred thousand people arrived at Saugerties, N. Y. for Woodstock '94. From folk music to heavy metal, the weekend concert was filled with music almost 24 hours a day.

Res. 919-443-3533

It will mean millions of dollars for the local economy.

It will increase production by more than 20%.

It will create hundreds of new construction jobs.

Now let's talk about why it's really important.

Over the next few years, we'll be investing something more than $500 million in modernizing our Plymouth paper and pulp mill.

The benefits will be dramatic. And those mentioned above are just the beginning. There are countless others. Like increasing our recycling capacity 140%, from 150,000 to 360,000 tons of cardboard every year. And reducing water usage by five million gallons a day.

Then there are the ones that you can't really put a number on.

Like cleaner air, earth, and water. In other words, a better environment.

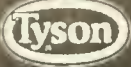

And it's hard to think of anything more valuable than that.

Or more important.

PRODUCTIVITY & QUALITY!

PLASMA TUNDISH HEATING FOR CONTINUOUS CASTING

PLASMA ENERGY CORPORATION offers continuous casting steelmakers the proven technology to precisely control steel temperature directly in the tundish. The ability to control temperature just before the mold has a stabilizing effect on the casting process and improves both productivity and quality of the cast product.

Our systems are ruggedly engineered to withstand steel mill conditions and are simple to operate and maintain.

IMPROVES PRODUCTIVITY

- Reduces Caster Aborts
(20 cold heats saved at Nucor in first year)
Strand freezefoffs can be virtually eliminated by avoiding low temperatures in the tundish, resulting in less downtime and pourbacks.
- Reduces Nozzle Clogging
(50% lower at Nippon Steel)
Nozzle clogging is reduced by avoiding low temperatures in the tundish, resulting in less downtime and longer nozzle life.
- Reduces Excess Superheat
(10°F lower at Nippon Steel)
The ability to heat in the tundish reduces the need for excess superheat, resulting in lower operating costs at the furnace, lower refractory wear and shorter tap to tap times.

IMPROVES QUALITY

- Reduces Inclusion Content
The ability to trap non-metallic inclusions is enhanced by keeping the tundish slag hot and fluid, resulting in cleaner steel.
- Reduces Downgrades
Segregation, surface cracking and mold flux carry over on the cast product surface can be reduced by avoiding excess superheat and low temperatures in the tundish, resulting in better internal microstructure and surface quality.

The 1995 Agromeck was printed by Delmar Printing and Publishing (job number 1-5111) of Charlotte, North Carolina. This edition, volume 93, consists of 312 pages and an original press run of 600 copies. The trim size is 9 by 12 inches and the paper is 100 pound gloss enamel. The book is Smyth-sewn, rounded and backed with headbands and tinted endsheets.

Original cover art is patterned after the gateway structure facing Hillsborough Street, next to D.H. Hill library on the university's main campus. Cover design, title page, and divider pages were created by C. Brent Smith and the Agromeck staff, and produced by Delmar Printing and Publishing. All applied colors are process colors.

All copy was set by the Agromeck staff using Macintosh Centris 650, Macintosh IIcx, and PowerMacintosh 7100/66 computers. The layouts were submitted using desktop publishing. QuarkXPress 3.31 was used to submit each individual spread as a separate document. Fonts used are Bills Big Bullets, Futura, Optima, and New Century Schoolbook.

Most photographs were taken with the following cameras: Canon EOS-1N, EOS A2E, EOS 630, Nikon F-4s, F-4e, F-3HP, F-2 AS, FM-2, N-90, 8008, and 8008s. Canon lenses used include 20mm/F2.8 to 200mm/F2.8. Nikon lenses used include 20mm/F2.8 to 400mm/F3.5. Black and white film used include: Kodak T-Max 100, T-Max 400, T-Max P3200, Tri-X, Plus-X, and Technical Pan Film, Fuji Neopan 400, and Neopan 1600, Ilford Pan-F, Delta 100, Delta 400, HP5 Plus. Color films used include: Kodak Ektapress 400, Ektapress 1600, Kodachrome 64, Kodachrome 200, Elite 100, Elite 200, Lumiere 100, Lumiere 100x, Fuji Fujicolor HG professional, Velvia, Fujichrome 50, Provia, Fujichrome 100, and Fujichrome 100 professional. All black and white photographs were printed by the Agromeck staff on a Leica V-35 enlarger or produced on Adobe Photoshop 3.0, film scanning done on a Kodak RS2035 scanner and printed out on a Kodak XLS-8600 printer. The color separations were prepared for production from original transparencies except for color images from the Peach Bowl (pp 156-161), which were produced by JW Photo Labs of Raleigh, North Carolina.

Under contract, portraits were taken by Thornton Studios of New York, New York and advertising was solicited by Scholastic Advertising, Inc. of Snellville, Georgia. •

Editor's Note to the 93rd Volume

The end is finally here. This is due in no small part to the many people who have become an important part of this volume. If you would like to skip the platitudes, go ahead to the next paragraph. First and foremost, I would like to thank my mother and father. Sure, everybody says it, but that's because it's probably true, and it's certainly true in my case. I never realized just how good you guys were until I saw what the other kids ended up with for parents. I owe it all to you. Next up is Andrew Davis Tucker, managing editor for this volume and editor in chief for the next; he got it honest. Andy, treat Ag like a lady and she'll never do you wrong. When production times get tough, don't ever give up, don't let her go down on your watch. Amy Maniskas and Martha Harvey, you ladies really came through for me in the clutch. I could not have done it without you, thanks. My thanks to the photo staff: Jim Clagett, Erin Beach, Jimmie Griffin, Liz Mahncke, James Cowgill and the many, many other contributing photographers — including Jim Mahaffee, Jean Bragassa, Angela Pridgen and others. Others in this case include some people not on the staff. The Photo Peppers, for instance. Swayne Hall, Todd Bennett, Chris Hondros and Marc Kawanishi, especially for Marc Kawanishi, mentor and darts partner — you helped me more than you know. Also thanks to the contributing layout staff: Christian Dick, Betsy Stroud, Allison Berg and Lisa Stuart.

This volume is a step in the right direction for Agromeck. We've had a rebuilding of sorts. This is the first year since I have been at N.C. State, since the late 80s, that the yearbook has come back on time. The number of portraits has at least tripled from previous years, and campus awareness is on the increase. I only hope the momentum can continue and build. I don't envy the future editors who, as all the previous editors have, face with the difficult task of trying to sell yearbooks to a campus of students who are rifling through their blue jeans trying to find enough cash to buy a six pack for the weekend.

One thing of note that you may or may not have noticed: the Memorial Tower (commonly called the bell tower) does not appear in this volume. It's been overdone, I mean really overdone. It's a war memorial, it's not made of brick, it's also way off at the northeast corner of campus where almost no one walks on a daily basis, except maybe university administrators. But I can assure you that for the 1994-1995 academic year, the bell tower stood sentry-like on the corner of campus, just as it has for a long time. May Agromeck stand as long as the tower does.
